It is a well known fact that the carriage business of any house in this part of the city is a very profitable one. Have sold more goods and at lower prices than for the season of 1893. No such bargains ever offered before as we are now known to our friends. We are determined to lead all others. All work fully guaranteed.

It is now being demonstrated that the worst thing American labor ever did for itself was to vote the Democratic ticket in 1890 and 1892.

The strike troubles in New Bedford involve 13 of the largest cotton manufacturing establishments, with an investment of $11,500,000. There are 1,022,000 spindles and 15,200 looms involved. Six of the factories are cloth mills and seven are yarn mills.

The following data show the extent of the cotton industry involved in the Fall river troubles: Capital invested, $23,650,000; spindles, 2,545,500; looms, 60,000; employees 25,350; weekly pay-rolls, $172,675; cotton consumed weekly, 6,000; production, 720,000,000 yards of cloth per annum.

The proprietor of a barber shop in Atlantic, Iowa, accidentally mixed some insect powder with his face powder and the consequences was that some of those who were in the habit of patronizing his shop were afflicted with very sore faces. Now his barber shop is deserted. Those who were once his patrons shave themselves.

The present wheat crop of Illinois has never been exceeded but three times in the history of the state. The average yield per acre, 20 bushels, has never been exceeded. But little wheat is raised in the northern division of the state, only 2,391,757 bushels, but in central and southern Illinois the product amounted to 20,736,232 and 10,157,110 respectively. The yield per acre in northern Illinois was 21 bushels, in central Illinois 22 bushels and in southern Illinois 18 bushels.

The average Democrat has been made to believe that a low tariff does not mean low wages, and when you approach him on that subject he says that a reduction of the tariff does not necessarily mean low wages. On the contrary sensible men who employ labor and that class of labor, the iron and glass workers, who make this question a matter of study all agree, since the new tariff bill has become a law, that it means lower wages and plenty of idle workmen.

The Milwaukee Journal, a Democratic organ says, "the tariff reform" president again reads the riot act to the sandbag senators and the people will applaud him for every word." Those people who don't know any better than to let every demagogue throw dust in their eyes, perhaps, may applaud him, but Senator Jones, of Arkansas, who is a tariff reformer after Cleveland's own heart, publicly announces that Cleveland consented to all the important changes made in the senate bill, including taxed sugar, coal and iron. Harris, of Tennessee, another reformer says the same and so does Vest, of Missouri.

A well-known farmer says and exchange, gives his preventive of hog cholera as follows: "I never lose any hogs by cholera. Some years ago my neighbors' hogs were dying all around me, and some of them died at my gate, but not one of mine ever had the disease. The cause of my hogs' exemption from the dreadful malady was that I mixed soda with their food two or three times a week. Sometimes I gave them the soda in slops and at other times I wet the corn and rolled it in soda and fed it to them. This is a sure preventive and will keep the hogs in a healthy condition, and I do not fear hog cholera."

Convict Labor.
It will be remembered that John P. Altgeld and his lieutenants in the campaign of 1892 had a great deal to say about the contract labor system at the penitentiary. Some of the old contracts for prison labor made before the constitution was amended to prohibit the contracting of such labor had not expired, at the time of the campaign of 1892, and Altgeld took advantage of the situation to assume that Gov. Pifer was running the contract system in defiance of law. Altgeld got thousands of labor votes by this deception and was elected governor. Every mechanic in the state of Illinois if he believed what Altgeld said, had reason to expect that he would be relieved from the competition of cheap prison labor as soon as he became governor.

This, however, has not proven so, but on the contrary the prison labor competition is worse and more degrading than it ever was before. Under Altgeld the state has purchased the machinery, in the penitentiaries owned by those who contracted the prison labor, and has itself gone into the business of manufacturing in competition with free labor, and has put on the road drummers to sell its goods. It sells them so cheap that instead of being in the nature of competition with free labor, it simply displaces it to the extent of its output.

This is true as to harness, cigars, chairs, brooms and several other articles. When remonstrated with, Mr. Altgeld and his commissioners do not talk as they did in 1892. Their answer now is that the convicts must be kept at work. Their present plan seems to be the best we can expect of them, and if labor gets relief it will have to come through the Republican party. It seems to be the only party that can take hold and settle these vexed questions. While the contract system was not a party but a business question, it made the penitentiaries more than self-supporting. The present system is the Democratic system and makes the competition with free labor worse than it ever was and in addition to this makes the penitentiaries an expense to the people, as they have under the new plan ceased to be self-supporting by hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

Something will have to be done to relieve both labor and capital engaged in the harness, cigar, chair and broom business from this convict competition and until something better can be devised we would suggest a license system. Let the next legislature require every man who handles prison made goods to pay a license to the state sufficient to make up the difference between prison and free labor. This at least would have the effect of relieving the competition of its ruinous cheapness, a thing that Gov. Altgeld and his penitentiary commissioners would do without the force of law if they had the interest of labor at heart.

THE SENATORS AT HOME.

Senator Cullom's Plans for the Campaign—A Narrow Escape.

Springfield Journal.
Senator Shelby M. Cullom arrived home yesterday from Washington to remain until after the November election. The long session of Congress having finally ended, Senator Cullom has returned to Illinois to take an active part in the campaign. He is looking and feeling unusually well and is better prepared than ever to do effective service on the stump, as he has done in every campaign for years past. The Senator will make his headquarters at room 18 at the Leland Hotel and will be in the city for some time, although when the state committee has completed his speaking appointments he will be away much of the time, visiting all parts of the state. Senator Cullom said: "I am in the hands of the Republican state central committee, to do whatever work they may have for me. I am here for the campaign, and will start in as soon as the committee think it wise to begin."

"This is a very large state, and it takes some time to get over the ground. If I had been merely looking after personal matters I would have come home a month ago, but I could not do that with all that we had to do and to keep Congress from doing, and so I remained until no more harm could be done than has been done."

"I feel about this campaign very much as a gentleman put it on the train coming to Chicago. He said that if the Republicans couldn't carry the country this year, then we might just as well throw up the sponge." Senator and Mrs. John M. Palmer arrived home yesterday via the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern. Senator Palmer is also in good health, but is not jubilant over the tariff legislation enacted by congress. While it was preferable to nothing in his estimation, he thought it was not what the Democrats of Illinois wanted and expected. Senator and Mrs. Palmer had a narrow escape from death while enroute home. While whirling through West Virginia a landslide crushed the engine, tender and baggage car of the train upon which they were riding and the engineer and fireman were killed.

Odd Fellows Picnic.

There was a big gathering of Odd Fellows and their friends at Dickey's Grove near Argenta Thursday, and a grand time was enjoyed by all participants. Delegations were present from Oreada, Oakley, Maros, Cicco, Foreyth, Cerro Gordo, Emery and other points. This was the order of exercises:

Song—"In Old Madrid," Arion Quartet.

Prayer—Rev. Bartlett, Argenta.

Song—"In the Gloaming," Arion Quartet.

Address—Rev. E. B. Randall, pastor First M. E. church, Springfield, Ill.

Song—"Who Built the Ark," Arion Quartet.

Address—State Secretary J. R. Miller, Springfield.

Song—"Old Love's Sweet Song," Quartet.

The Arions made quite a hit with their popular selections. They were called back again and again after singing "Who Built the Ark." T. T. Cooper was in general charge of the picnic.

Shultz—Webster.

Last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Webster, 1043 West Macon street, Miss Ida E. Webster was married to Winfield I. Shultz, of College Corners, Ohio, Rev. A. W. Hawkins, officiating. The ring service was used and the ceremony performed in the presence of two dozen friends. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Viola Bourne and brother Walter, Miss Maude Foster and Henry Marcott. Miss Mabel Brockway was the maid of honor. An elegant wedding feast was spread and enjoyed by those present. Mr. and Mrs. Shultz were the recipients of many handsome and valuable presents. They left last night for their future home at College Corners, Ohio, where Mr. Shultz is engaged in farming.

Fern Sociable.

Bay Leaf Camp No. 23, Royal Neighbors of America, will give a fern sociable in the I. O. G. T. hall, (old court house block), to-night. The following program will be given:

Recitation—Miss Amelia Cantwell

Recitation—Miss Willie Robertson

Refreshments will be served. Admission 10 cents. Everybody cordially invited.

A Big Warehouse.

V. H. Parke & Son are preparing to build a big brick warehouse on their property on North Main street. It will be a big affair, probably two stories high. The fact that 60,000 feet in joists will be necessary will give an idea of the size. The brick in the old Short Line street railway power house will be used in the construction of the building, which will front on the Wabash railroad. As projected it will be the biggest and most complete warehouse in the city.

In Honor of Miss Darby.

The Sangamo camping party entertained Miss Mabel Darby, of Chicago, yesterday evening at the residence of Mrs. J. E. King, 719 North Main street. The evening was most enjoyably spent by all present. Light refreshments were served. Miss Darby returns to her home in Chicago to-morrow.

DRILLED STONE AXES.

The Apparatus Probably Employed by Prehistoric Man.

A Rude Device, with Horn Drills Which, Aided by Water and Sharp-Cutting Sand, May Have Been Used for Drilling Stone.

Could early man, without tools of iron, drill holes in stone? This question has been frequently suggested by the discovery, in the deposits of the later stone age, of axes and other implements of stone, with holes bored in them for the reception of handles. An article in the "Stein der Wissen," Vienna, No. 9, is designed to show that, although metal axes probably furnished the idea, the task was quite feasible. The writer supplies a cut, which reproduces a rude, drilled apparatus, with horn drills, aided by water and sharp-cutting sand, which has been successfully employed for drilling stones.

"The perforated stone axes," says the writer, "were often ornamented by lines carved, or in relief, and would appear to have been in general use as 'walking sticks' in a later age; but they could hardly have been designed for actual use in war. The handle was for the most part behind the center, and the cutting edge is never very sharp, and the back portion was used as a hammer. Two-edged axes are very rare. "From the unfinished specimens which have been handed down to us, and the innumerable drills which have been found, it is concluded that the drilling was performed by means of a hollow cylinder of horn, wood or bone, used with wet sand, which was introduced under the revolving pipe. In some cases a more compact drill may have been used, but metal was at least unnecessary. In any case, the bow and string for working the drill would have been of incalculable advantage.

"The accompanying cut gives an illustration of an apparatus constructed by Count Gundaker Wurmbrand, which he might have used in drilling axes in the neolithic pile dwellings of the eastern Alps. A stand (a) consists of two vertical posts of stag horn, imbedded in a wooden block, and connected at top by a horizontal beam. Through a vertical hole in the beam passes a revolving shaft (b), in a cleft under the end of which is attached a circular drill made of the tine of a stag horn, which is bound in place by a string. Near the lower end of the shaft is a groove, which receives the bow string, by means of which the shaft is maintained, in rapid, alternating revolution. The stone to be drilled is, of course, held firmly in place by wooden pegs. The drilling agent is simply wet quartz sand, which, during the operation, is supplied unceasingly between the drill and the surface operated on. With this apparatus, Count Wurmbrand, following F. Keller's method, has repeatedly drilled through hard stones, such as serpentine. He found the results of his experiments, including even his accidents, precisely such as were experienced in the neolithic age, as is proved by numerous finished, unfinished and broken remains.

"But whatever was gained by the facility with which a shaft could be fixed in a drilled stone head, was lost in strength and durability. The labor involved was by no means a light one, and of all the prehistoric remains which have come down to us, by far the greater number are broken at the drilled portion. Occasionally the broken fragment of an ax is found to be drilled fresh, from which it is easily inferred that the drilling entailed less labor than the dressing into shape of a fresh stone.

WILL LOSE HIS FOOT.

Street Car Accident—George Cruse of Moweaqua the Victim.

This forenoon George Cruse, who has a wife at Moweaqua, met with a serious accident on Water street on the crossing near the Powers shoe store corner. He got caught between two electric street cars on the double track and in falling his left foot at the instep was so badly crushed by the wheels that amputation will be necessary. Eye witnesses state that Cruse had left the shoe store corner to pass over the crossing to the west side of the street. As he did so the depot car was going south in charge of Brooks Ferguson. Somebody yelled at Cruse to look out and he stepped back as Ferguson stopped his car. Just then Lou Draper was going north rapidly with the Condit street car No. 11. It was going fast. People disagree as to the rate of speed of the car. Anyhow as Cruse stepped back from in front of the depot car he was thrown by the Condit street car and tumbled down between the two cars. In falling the left foot got on the rail and the wheels crushed it at the instep. Cruse was otherwise cut and bruised. He was carried to the office of Catto & Jones where the surgeons removed the shoe and gave the suffering man immediate attention. Subsequently he was removed in a carriage to St. Mary's Hospital. Possibly the amputation will be at the instep.

The Wreck at Buffalo.

An expensive freight wreck occurred last evening on the Wabash in the village of Buffalo, on account of an open switch. East bound train No. 76 was heading into Buffalo at the rate of about ten miles an hour when the engine struck the open switch at the west end and was derailed, going into the ditch. Fourteen cars were thrown off the track and piled in a con fusing mass along the embankment. The engine was thrown on its side but Fireman DeFratus and Engineer Atkinson escaped unhurt.

The wrecking crew from Springfield and the one from Decatur were dispatched to the scene immediately and went to work on the wreckage.

Sent Back to Jail.

This forenoon it was concluded in Justice Hammer's court not to proceed further with the preliminary trial of the case of The People vs. Leonidas Hooper, charged with criminal assaults upon Etta Davis, aged 12 years. The evidence disclosed a shocking state of affairs. Bail was fixed at $700, and Hooper went back to jail.

SNEAK THIEVES AGAIN.

Two Watches, a Ring and Some Cash Stolen from the Y. M. C. A. Rooms.

Yesterday afternoon the Y. M. C. A. ball team engaged in a game of ball at Athletic Park. Before going away they left their every day clothes hanging on the hooks in the bath room section on the third floor at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. They were gone all afternoon and Secretary Woodford was in the office and in and out of the other rooms on the second floor. About 25 people passed through the office and up the stairway into the gymnasium during the afternoon, but Secretary Woodford who was busy cannot recall the names of any of the visitor's except four. When the ball players returned at six o'clock, it was discovered that somebody had gone into the bath room and had gone through the clothing of the young men. S. S. Dixon, the assistant secretary, had a gold watch and chain and 83 taken; Jay Morrison lost a gold watch and chain and about $6; Mr. Conn lost a gold ring, and Gates and Conn each $1.50. The police were notified and Officer Motherspaugh was the first to get the particulars. To-day Officer Hewes is at work on the case. Possibly the guilty party will be caught this time.

OUT OF BUSINESS.

Sale of the Roach Bros. Dry Goods Stock to J. H. Leonard.

J. H. Leonard, late of Litchfield, Ill., has purchased the Roach Bros. stock of dry goods on South Park street and is now in full charge of the establishment. The retirement of Roach Bros. from mercantile life in Decatur is worthy of more than passing mention. The store is one of the oldest in Decatur, and is widely known. It has weathered all the seasons of depressed times and has been known as one of the pillars of commercial solidity. In 1866 the store was established by J. F. Roach and D. O. McKeenolds, under the firm name of Roach & McKeenolds, and in 1892 F. P. Roach was admitted as a partner, when the name was changed to Roach, McKeenolds & Co., and so continued until 1934, when Mr. McKeenolds retired to become the cashier of the National Bank of Decatur. Then the store was known as Roach Bros. J. F. Roach, the senior member of the firm, is easily the oldest dry goods merchant in the city, although he is yet a young man.

It is not known now in what enterprise the Roach Brothers will engage. All they know now is that they are out of business, and will devote their time for the present in closing up all accounts.

LOST HIS MUSTACHE.

A Very Cute Trick that Failed to

THE DERENDANT IN A DIVORCE SUIT

Tries to Fool a Witness as to His Identity—Recognized by His Wife,
Is Exposed and Beats a Hasty Retreat.

HARRISBURG, Neb., Aug. 31.—One of the most singular court scenes was witnessed here yesterday in the taking of testimony in the divorce suit of Mrs. Richard B. Sheridan, of St. Louis, against her husband, who is a prominent member of the Merchants' exchange of that city. Mrs. Sheridan is suing for divorce in St. Louis, alleging that her husband has been living on one of his ranches near Blue Hill, this state, in adultery with a St. Louis inmate named Nellie Donnelly.

Mrs. Sheridan mistrusted her husband's honesty when every Saturday night for nearly a year he went away to see how the crops were looking. She eventually satisfied herself that he was in company with another woman at these times, and made an investigation. She found her husband comfortably installed in a new house which he had built at Blue Hill, with the Donnelly woman. Her divorce suit followed.

While the testimony was being taken, an incident occurred which had a denouement altogether unexpected by the chief actor. Just as Mr. Howers was in the act of identifying a photograph of Sheridan taken at a sharp rap upon the door, and the attorney admitted Mr. Sheridan. His mustache had been shaved off, and he began to explain that he was an attorney acting in behalf of Mr. Sheridan, who was in St. Louis and could not be present, and that he would like to talk over the case.

Mrs. Sheridan recognized her husband's voice, and lost no time in coming forward and presenting her surprised spouse to the lawyer. Sheridan was considerably nonplussed at this unexpected turn of affairs, and permitted himself to be led forward and introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Howers, hotel keepers, with whom he had stayed several times.

He submitted to the ordeal as gracefully as possible under the circumstances, and was immediately recognized as "Mr. Spencer" by the hotel-keepers. But when his wife coolly inquired if he was not glad to renew his acquaintance with his former host's patience forsook him and, grabbing his hat, he hastily made his exit.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan are well known in St. Louis. He is prominent on "change," where he has made and lost two or three fortunes.

Mrs. Sheridan is the daughter of Capt. James A. Guion, who was for thirty years or more connected with the Wiggins Ferry Co. In her plea for alimony Mrs. Sheridan alleges that her husband is worth $50,000.

A NOVEL SPECTACLE.

The Governor of Colorado on Trial for Conspiracy.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 31.—The novel spectacle of the governor of the state on trial for conspiracy brought out a large crowd to the federal building yesterday morning. The governor conducted his own case, and had several tilts with the district attorney.

At the afternoon session Jesse Parr, the man who wrote the troublesome letter was called. He was asked: "Did you send a photograph in your letter?"

"No."

"You say you weigh 180 pounds. Would it cost any more to feed you than if you weighed 125 pounds?"

"I don't know."

"You say that you had blue eyes. Did you expect that to be taken into consideration in making a contract with a housekeeper?"

The witness looked foolish and was excused amidst a burst of laughter.

Kate Dwyer, one of the defendants and present police matron, was examined and explained the nature of her quarrel with Matron Likens.

Police Commissioner Barnes, Ajax Rogers and Dennis Mullins, of the police board, were also witnesses. Their testimony called up the old trouble between the police board and the governor, and seemed to implicate the latter in at least one of the alleged conspiracies.

The case for the defendants was conducted by the governor, who was con- sidered this morning at 9 o'clock.

INTO TROUBLE

By a Fraudulent Pension

VALPARAISO, Ind., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Pooe Card, of Los Angeles, Cal., has gotten into trouble in trying to secure a fraudulent pension with nearly $2,000 back pay. Mrs. Johanna Card, of New York, applied for a pension as widow of Walter D. Card, of New York. Just before it was granted Pooe made application, and as part of her proof filed in the pension office a certified copy of the records of the Porter circuit court, signed by Charles Brown, clerk, and James Osborne, judge, with the official seal affixed, showing that Walter Card had been granted a divorce from Johanna. The records in the courthouse show that at the time the papers were dated court was not in session, neither was Brown ever clerk nor Osborne judge.

Accepted the Reduction.

KANE, Pa., Aug. 31.—The glassblowers employed in the McCoy window glass works here have accepted a 20 per cent. reduction in wages, and the works will start up to-morrow. In the neighborhood of 500 men are employed at the works.

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 30.—One case of cholera is reported here to-day, and two cases of the disease are reported at Spydensike. At Maestricht two additional cases of cholera have been recorded, and at Amsterdam there has been one death.

THE USE OF SOAPS.

How the Skin Is Injured by the Cheapest Kinds.

Even in perfect health, the skin may be said to be one of the most sensitive of the bodily tissues, and when it is naturally irritable and harsh it is liable to be seriously affected by the simplest of external influences.

The skin is roughly divided into two layers; the deeper one, or the true skin, being the vital portion, and for the most part responsible for the health of the whole structure; while the external layer is more of the nature of horn, and serves as a protection for the tissues underneath.

The natural function of the true skin, which is to excrete the perspiration, tends, in normal conditions, to lubricate this horny epidermis, as it is called, and to keep it always soft and somewhat moist.

The perspiration is, in the main, composed of watery and fatty sweat; and in determining the suitability of any cleansing medium, it is its relation to these substances more than anything else that we have to study.

Soap, as we all know, is made by the action of alkalis, like potash and soda, upon fats. There is generally, even in the best of soap, a greater or less amount of alkali above that required to transform the fat into soap. It is this free alkali that becomes prejudicial to the skin, as it not only acts as an irritant, but combines with and removes the fatty sweat. By its continued action the skin is rendered harsh and dry.

We may guard against the danger which may attend, in some cases at least, the free use of soap in either of two ways—by limiting ourselves to articles made by reputable firms, or by using a soap which has an excess of fatty matter in its composition, like that known as "castile."

Cheap soaps, while they may appear all right to the sense of sight and smell, are generally perfumed highly to hide the presence of free alkali, and their use is always to be discouraged.—Youth's Companion.

LITERARY DERELICTS.

Scrapbooks, Their Value and the Changes in Taste Which They Show.

Who so keepeth a scrapbook keepeth a good thing, and the manner in which it is kept is an indication of the presence or absence of certain qualities in the "keeper," as order, perseverance, continuity of purpose and fixedness of memory.

A scrapbook is, moreover, an index of literary taste and feeling, and a scrapbook, or a series of scrapbooks kept for a number of years, shows how that taste may change, broaden and rise with reading and the reception of new ideas and impressions. Could we have all the scrapbooks of one lifetime extending from youth to age, we should have a literary history of that life.

These scrapbooks are most interesting and valuable which may be classified as personal; kept by some one individual for personal use and behoof; which record the workings of one brain and, in a way, the emotions of one heart. These, preserved, become in time histories and autobiographies.

Next in interest to these private scrapbooks are those which are kept for a purpose; to collect and preserve facts in regard to some event in history; some historical character, as Washington or Napoleon, or better yet, some contemporary personage. From these the biographer of the future may collect his choicest material; for he it is known that newspapers from which scrapbooks are generally made are no longer the "abstract and brief chronicles" of the time, but are extended and even diffuse chronicles.

There is to tell anyone who has had occasion to write a post-mortem sketch of any modern statesman has found his facts stated at length, not in books, but in newspapers. And yet newspapers are evanescent and perishable. One of the one hundred thousand copies of a newspaper issued on a certain day, is it quite possible that every copy may have disappeared in a few days, except the half dozen preserved on files. It is well, then, that the scrapbook keeps the cream, the gem, the one poem, or sketch, or speech, or story that made a certain copy of the newspaper sought after and valuable for clipping purposes.

It is a fact that every reading person must have noticed, that there is not in the world a perfect book of quotations. Complete as the work on hand may be, it frequently does not contain the line, the verse, the "eloquent extract" one is looking for. Scrapbooks, old scrapbooks, are the repositories of these things; these poems by unknown authors; by the poets who wrote but one poem each, and never got credit for that. These are very often resurrected from antique scrapbooks and sent on their anonymous round through the newspapers, to be again secured in the scrapbooks and again for a time forgotten.

The scrapbook, or rather the keeping of it, is an aid to the memory. One does not entirely forget that which he takes time to cut out of a book or newspaper and fasten to the receptive page, and perhaps (as he should) record in an index. He retains a portion of it, a scrap of the scrap, as it were, in his mind, so that in any event he knows where to find it. The practice of keeping scrapbooks, considered by many persons old-fashioned, is not the less an excellent fashion; preserving to us in our youth; keep for another time what one day made us smile or weep; a biography, a history, a journal written by a thousand other hands and yet our own.—Kansas City Star.

LOUD GRIEF EXPENDS ITSELF.

"The person whose grief is manifested in violent paroxysms is fortunate," said Dr. L. J. Wilton. "I have never known a case where there were loud cries, wailing, and moaning that did not soon recover completely. One of the first patients I ever had was a young man who had met with an accident. He died within an hour, and the grief of his young widow was most distressing to those present. It was with the greatest difficulty that we could restrain her from throwing herself upon his coffin in the grave. But in two months she was married again, and seemed to be perfectly happy. Grief that can not be thrown off by outward manifestations is what tells.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A MYTHOLOGICAL CHARACTER.

The young man had been telling the girl a lot of marvelous stories, which he thought she was swallowing whole, until she began to quiz him and queer his yarns.

"Do you know," she asked after she had been making him feel silly for half an hour, "what mythological character I represent?"

"Diana," he responded, anxious to please.

"No," she desisted; "Orpheus."

"How Orpheus?" he inquired. "He was a man."

"I know, but he played upon the lyre."—Detroit Free Press.

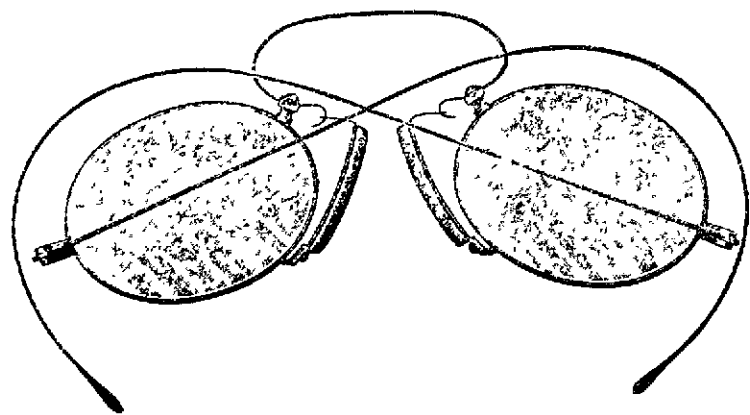

—There is but one woman lawyer in India, and that is Miss Sorabji, a Parsee, who, after winning academic honors in India, went to England, and was a successful student at Oxford, where she was a protegee of the late Prof. Jowett, the master of Balliol. She worked in a solicitor's office in Lincoln Inn after quitting Oxford, and thus familiarized herself with a lawyer's practical work. Miss Sorabji took up the study of law from the desire to help her countrywomen, whom religion and custom alike forbid to receive legal advice from men; but, after all, she has not yet been able to practice law in India. She still believes in her mission in life, however, and, pending the opportunity, she has a post at Haroda as director of woman's education.

—Along the west coast of Africa there are now about 225 churches, 40,000 converts, 100,000 adherents, 300 schools, 40,000 pupils. MARVELOUS RESULTS.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamond Lake, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at River Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succumbing to La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Trial bottle free at King & Hubbard's drug store. Regular size, 50c and $1.00.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT.

More Prizes Taken in the Exciting Events at Edwardsville.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., Aug. 30.—The firemen's tournament, which closed here to-night, it is said, has been the best yet held in the west. The town to-night is brilliantly illuminated and the department bands and teams are marching and having a good time. The crowd to-day numbered 4,000. The Executive board ran a fifty-yard foot race this afternoon. The silver cup went to the veteran chief, Andy J. Graft, of Dixon; second prize to Chief O. D. Wilcox, of Monmouth. In the novelty coupling contest, the middle section of a hose to be removed and replaced by a section brought ten feet by two men, Moline's Minutemen team won in 12 4-6 seconds. The great race of the tournament was the championship hose race this afternoon. The team runs 200 yards to a plug, lays 200 feet of hose, breaks coupling two full turns, and attaches nozzle two full turns. Clinton's team failed to call time and lost, having made a phenomenal run. Edgemoor won in 32 2-5 seconds. This gives for one year the gold badge of the state championship and $100 in money. In the championship hook and ladder race the same team ran 23 1-4 yards, raised a regulation ladder from the truck, and a man climbed to the top. The famous Monmouth team beat all Illinois records and won in 32 2-5 seconds. Pole coming next in 33 2-5 seconds. Edgemoor and Monmouth were easy winners in the 233 1-4 yards hub and hub races. 28-46

The executive committee will meet in January to decide where the 1895 tournament shall be held. Decatur is a strong applicant. At the Edwardsville meeting the Decatur committee had nearly everybody wearing Decatur badges. It was a good stroke and will doubtless win. 28-46

Hammond Caught After a Long Chase.

Ernest Hammond was arrested in Wagoner, I. T., last night by Sheriff Darrah Pike county, Ill., and will be brought back. It is charged Hammond, in company with John Ellis and Dave Hogan, went to the home of the Regener brothers in Pike county, Ill., Aug. 6, 1893, and tortured the old men by burning them with hot irons until they revealed where they kept their money. They then robbed them of several thousand dollars and escaped. Hogan and Ellis were afterwards captured and sentenced to the penitentiary, the former for life and the latter for twenty years. Hammond secured the greater bulk of the money and eluded the officers, but they kept track of him. Last fall he boarded a steamer at New Orleans and went to England, but he returned last April. Since then he has been in various parts of the United States, and was finally located at Wagoner, I. T., by Detective James F. Reynolds. He was there working in a grocery store under an assumed name. Hammond is about 24 years old and his parents reside in Hannibal, Mo. 28-46
